How dare you even CONSIDER a ruling that will make it VIRTUALLY impossible for me to supplement my paltry Social Security income!

I am a Senior author living in one room (which I'm about to lose) without ANY budget for marketing my books. My ONLY opportunities reside on the Internet, which I STRUGGLE to pay now. If you allow "fast lanes" for big business and the wealthy, it will simply be another example of the rich getting richer—and you know what happens to the poor—we starve!

I already cannot pay for the plans that provide higher Internet speeds—the proposed action would throw me deeper into the worldwide bog with no hope of adequately reaching potential buyers for my books and associated products.

PLEASE keep the Internet an open source available to everyone on an EQUAL basis, for FREEDOM to interact and conduct business ANYWHERE. As it has been stated, the Internet is NOT a product or commodity—it IS the marketplace by which we sell those items. And it helps make the difference between my starving, or not.
